

BBKA Statement concerning a judgement from the European Court of Justice on honey containing pollen from a Genetically Modified Organism.

The BBKA is aware of the ruling from the Court and has been in contact with Defra and the Food Standards Agency (FSA) who have informed us that they will be considering the potential implications of this, including those for GM trials, with the European Commission and other Member States. The FSA further advises that the topic will be discussed at a forthcoming meeting of the EU Standing Committee on the Food Chain and Animal Health following which they should be in position to say more about the implications of the opinion.

The BBKA will monitor these developments and assess their possible effects both for its members and the public. Please visit the BBKA website for further updates.

10 September 2011